TMET, along with all other public authorities, must comply with the Freedom of Information Act. The Act was created as an initiative to increase openness and transparency in Government, with the Freedom of Information Act passed on 30 November 2000.

The Act obliges organisations covered by it to publish certain information about their activities and, additionally, to make any other information (with a number of statutory exceptions) available upon request.

This policy is intended to cover all records created in the course of the business of TMET. This includes email messages and other electronic records.

This policy applies to all TMET employees, including temporary, casual or agency staff and contractors, consultants and suppliers working for, or on behalf of, TMET.

The Freedom of Information Act requires every public authority to have a publication scheme, which is approved by the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), and to publish information covered by the scheme.
